

NIGHT ON A FOGBOUND BOAT

THE STEAMER ANGLER, DUE SATURDAY NIGHT, ARRIVED YESTERDAY.

SOME PASSENGERS SAY THAT SHE RAN AGROUND
—THE MAJORITY TURNED THEIR MIS-HAP INTO A PICNIC—A BAND ABOARD KEPT UP THEIR SPIRITS.

caused much uneasiness by not getting back to this city on Saturday night, while she was due here at 7:30 p. m., turned up all right early yesterday morning with a tired and hungry lot of excursionists aboard, after being out all night. But most of the 200 or more who came ashore

The Angler left the Battery landing at 8 p. m. on Saturday for Rockaway Beach. At 6 p. m. she left Rockaway with about 200 passengers, the majority of whom were women and children, on her last trip to the city, under command of Captain Louis Hahn. The fog had been settling down for some time, and at 7 p. m. it had become so thick that Captain Hahn decided to anchor and wait for clearer weather; so two anchors were let go from the bow when the Angler was off Rockaway Point.

and the captain had boats lowered to take the passengers. Two sloop yachts, whose names could not be learned, approached the steamboat and offered to take off the passengers, but Captain Hahn said that there was no danger, and refused to allow any of the passengers to be transferred, although some wanted to be. A few of the passengers were disposed to "kick" at the action of the captain and blame him for the trouble. These attempted to circulate a paper to that effect, but few signers were obtainable, and the matter, regarding the captain and the praising him for his assistance to the passengers and his thoughtfulness for their comfort was passed around and generally signed. The captain ordered the steward to prepare coffee, sandwiches, etc., which were served in the upper cabin and the dining-room, and were soon disposed of by the hungry excursionists.

There was a string band aboard and also a quantity of solid and liquid refreshments, so

The band struck up lively airs, and the decks were filled with couples keeping time with flying feet. As the hours went by the weather showed no signs of clearing, and those aboard the fog-bound excursion boat began to believe that they were in total night. The men were made comfortable in the six state rooms and in the cabins and went to sleep, and did many of the men, who improvised couches of campstools and benches. About midnight the steward reported that his ladder was cleaned out and the double had also disappeared. But the

At 2 a. m. Captain Hahn decided that it would be safe to proceed: the anchors were taken up and the Angler slowly packed up the city, where she arrived at 5:30 a. m., having taken almost twelve hours to make the trip from Rockaway to the Battery landing. The passengers trooped ashore, somewhat bedraggled-looking and more or less sleepy and hungry, but they had had an experience they will enjoy telling for many a long day. While some of the passengers declared that the Angler had gone

The Angler made her regular trips to Rock away yesterday, carrying large numbers of passengers, so that her bed of sand, if she had one must have been soft. The vessel is owned by among the fishing cranks of the city, who delight to go down to the Banks. She used to make the trip to the Fishing Banks daily, but was recently put on the Rockaway route.

ANOTHER BICYCLE RIDER HAS A SERIOUS ACCIDENT WHERE SCHROEDER WAS KILLED.

While riding down the gorge road at Shadyside N. J., on a bicycle last evening Thomas Thompson, son of No. 98 Fulton-ave., Jersey City, took a "header" and went over an embankment within twenty feet of the place where Charles Schroeder was killed in a similar accident on Sunday, May 17. Thompson was seriously hurt. His skull is supposed to be cracked.

BOLD HIGHWAYMEN IN CHICAGO.
Chicago, June 7.—L. T. Klein's drygoods store at Halstead and Fourteenth-st., was robbed last night by highwaymen, who entered the store while it was open and well lighted, and forced the cashier to surrender her money, $500, at the point of a revolver. The highwaymen demanded stores in the neighborhood of the store.

city, and at the time the robbery was committed the building was not only brilliantly lighted, but filled with customers. The work is supposed to have been done by the three men who killed Marshall, proprie-

CRIPPLE CREEK POSTOFFICE ROBBED.
Cripple Creek, Col., June 1.—The postoffice was robbed at an early hour yesterday morning. Two sacks of pennies and some registered letters were taken. The loss cannot be ascertained until the office is checked up. At 2.30 o'clock Frank Bratland, who stays in the temporary quarters of the postoffice, went home for a short time, and upon his return he was "held up" by two men who took away his money and his mail carriers on him until they had

FIVE LIVES LOST BY DROWNING.
Mason City, Iowa, June 7.—M. J. Atkins, of Clear Lake; Vernon Galt, of Albert Lea, Minn., and Ross C. Sasser, of Northwood, were drowned at Northwood, Minn., June 6.

senior class at the Nora Springs Seminary. With two or three young men they went in bathing. One of them by accident slipped off into a deep hole, and the others in trying to rescue him were themselves all pushed together.

At Marengo Robert and Cuieth Winslow and Frye were drowned while bathing in Iowa River yesterday afternoon.

unveiled yesterday afternoon. About three thousand persons were present at the ceremony, the uncovering being done by Rene Bach, of Philadelphia, the great-great-grandson of Franklin. The statue is the work of R. H. Park, the Chicago sculptor. The bronze figure is nine feet high, and the pedestal is twelve feet high. The figure is costumed in a typical colonial rock coat with knee breeches, and gives the impression of a man of medium stature, well formed and strongly built. The statue was presented by Mr. Medill to the person, who made a brief address. In behalf of the printers, the statue was accepted by Conrad Kahle and William Penn Nixon for the Lincoln Park Commission.

H. D. Estabrook, who was followed by P. F. Pettit, gave the invocation. The program was interspersed with music and an ode was read by John J. Flint, the author.

INSTALLATION OF A CLERGYMAN.
 Pawtucket, R. I., June 7.—The Rev. Marion Law

recently assistant rector of St. James's Episcopal Church, of New-York, was publicly installed as rector of St. Paul's Church in this city to-day, in the presence of a large number of people. The installation was conducted by Archdeacon William P. Tucker, representing Bishop Clark, in the evening the Rev. E. Walpole Warren, rector of St. James's, New-York, preached a strong sermon on "Activity and Unity in Church Work."